GPs FEAR 'PATIENTS AT RISK'

Doctors slam replacement of out-of-hours service

By Lucy Purdy

DOCTORS across Haringey have slammed a decision to replace out-of-hours GP service Camidoc, saying it could put thousands of vulnerable patients at risk.

More than 180 concerned GPs working in Haringey and surrounding boroughs have written to Health Secretary Andrew Lansley and London mayor Boris Johnson to protest at a decision to replace Camidoc, a not-for-profit service run by GPs, with private firm Harmoni. The transfer of evening and weekend care, in which help and advice is given when surgeries are closed, was "rushed through" after being handed to Harmoni on September 1 without any consultation with residents, according to critics.

The decision was made by primary care trusts in Haringey, Camden, Islington, Hackney and City after alleged financial problems at Camidoc, despite the company being awarded a three-year extension to its contract in March.

The letter, which was signed by 181 doctors including Dr Heather Henderson, a GP at Hornsey Neighbourhood Health Centre, read: "We believe this proposed transfer is neither in the best interests of patients, nor the NHS, and that it will significantly increase the overall cost of providing care. Camidoc is a not-for-profit organisation, whereas Harmoni is a commercial one seeking to make a profit for its shareholders. There has been a total lack of transparency around the transfer decision and no consultation with patients, GPs or other interested parties."

"Camidoc was awarded the current out-of-hours contract following a competitive tender.

We do not think it appropriate that the contract should now be awarded to a commercial organisation without a similar level of public accountability and scrutiny."

They also believe the switch will leave GPs without access to life-saving equipment such as oxygen for lung patients or defibrillators for life-threatening heart problems.

But a spokesman for NHS Haringey insisted that safety was their top concern. He said: "Camidoc recently alerted the PCT to problems regarding its financial status. An independent business review was conducted and the PCTs concluded that Camidoc was insolvent."

"All four PCTs considered that to enter into a new three-year contract with Camidoc in its current financial state was not an option that could be pursued."

"The decision taken was based on ensuring the continuity of a safe and viable service. In no way was it driven by a desire to save money, or by a privatisation agenda."

"Although the out-of-hours service is not an emergency service, Harmoni will continue to carry defibrillators and portable oxygen equipment in the cars, ensuring that it is appropriately maintained and all potential operators are adequately trained in their use."

Groups join forces to fight Haringey cuts

A NEW alliance has been formed to fight for the protection of local services in the face of swinging government cuts.

Residents groups, political groups, and trade unionists from all across the borough have joined together to form Haringey Alliance For Public Services and will hold a rally outside Wood Green Civic Centre, in High Road, at 6.30pm next Tuesday to coincide with a meeting of those charged with ushering in the cuts – Haringey Council's cabinet.

Group members believe that if the council puts in place a predicted £60million of cuts in the next four years, "devastating" impacts will be felt in all sections of the community. They are encouraging people who live and work in Haringey to join the alliance, "not leave the business of opposition to politicians".

Michelle Lawson from the group said: "By saying that these cuts are inevitable, the coalition government is peddling an economic myth to pursue its own political agenda. If its cuts are implemented, it will be the poorest who are hit the hardest."

The group will aim to protect healthcare, schools, nurseries, community centres, parks, libraries, social services, affordable housing, jobs and help for the unemployed.

Member Oktay Sambaz added: "It has been really encouraging to see so many different groups from all over Haringey coming together to resist these cuts."

Video row head is off on 'special leave'

By Lucy Purdy

THE headteacher of a school which hit the headlines after an internet video showing pupils on a drunken classroom rampage has gone on indefinite leave for "personal reasons".

As the autumn term started last week, Dr Colm Hickey, who had been at the helm at St Thomas More School in Glendale Avenue, was replaced by Martin Tissot, previously the headteacher at St George's Catholic School in Maida Vale.

It comes after angry parents went public earlier this year with a video showing pupils swigging from a bottle of champagne, kicking garage doors, chasing a cyclist, throwing traffic cones and spraying alcohol across their common room. There were also reports of another video allegedly showing pupils mugging a pizza delivery driver and smoking cannabis.

Haringey police arrested two 16-year-old boys on suspicion of robbery shortly afterwards.

The group, called Friends of St Thomas More School (FOSS), set up a website to expose the "scandalous" behaviour of pupils at the Catholic secondary school and called for Dr Hickey's resignation, in addition to an overhaul of discipline procedures.

Staff and parents received letters during the summer holiday informing them of Dr Hickey's departure after it was agreed by governors and the Diocese of Westminster. Mr Tissot is a former employee of the school and said that he was "delighted to be back."

"I am determined to ensure that the school keeps on improving and am heartened by the commitment and support of Haringey Council, staff, parents, pupils and governors alike," he added. "With the senior team and staff, I will be completely focused on ensuring that the climate for learning is appropriate and that the upward momentum of academic results is maintained."

But some parents say this does not go far enough and have penned a letter to Prime Minister David Cameron urging him to get involved.

FOSS spokesman Matthew Adams wrote: "It is a pity that the authorities appear to be attempting to cover this up by putting a smokescreen of 'special leave for personal reasons' around his absence."

"We have alerted Haringey Council and Westminster diocese to the dangers of keeping the existing leadership in place when the current pupil population is rapidly dwindling to nothing. But they are hell bent on supporting the triumvirate by giving the headteacher what is in effect compassionate leave while allowing the two deputies to continue with business as usual. This approach to resolving an inner-city problem is unsatisfactory and unsafe."

Plans are now afoot for a public march to demonstrate parents' disillusionment with the school, to coincide with the Pope's visit to the UK from September 16–19.

Jewish school could be one of the first in government scheme

ONE of the UK's first "free schools" could be created in Haringey, the government has revealed.

Haringey Jewish Primary School has been listed by the coalition government as one of the first 16 free schools, which will be state-funded but outside local authority control. Legislation was rushed through before the summer to allow parents, charities and businesses to set up these kind of schools.

The school will now move to a business case and planning stage after families in Haringey voiced their support for the project. It is expected to have an "inclusive" Jewish ethos and involve all the major denominations, from Orthodox to Liberal. No location is finalised yet.

Volunteers rock up to earn free show tickets

By Lucy Purdy

HUNDREDS of volunteers descended on the Selby Centre in Tottenham last week to give up their time in return for free tickets to a rock show.

More than 400 people arrived at the centre in Selby Road to help rebuild a children's playground using recycled wood, transform a sports area, and give a community cafe and halls a lick of recycled paint with murals and a multi-coloured star design.

They also planted flowers in the centre's green spaces and created a creepy crawly castle with the help of pop singer Olly Murs and TV presenter Jameela Jamil. The event was part of Orange RockCorps, a programme in which young people volunteer in local community projects in return for concert tickets.

The volunteers gave up four hours to earn their ticket to a show featuring Pendulum, Mark Ronson, N-Dubz and Taio Cruz.

Raff Baccus helps run the Wood Works Wonders project at the centre, in which unemployed youngsters help salvage and recycle wood while learning valuable skills. He said: "We had volunteers from all over London which was fantastic and there was a really fun atmosphere."

"The kids were happy because they had the chance to be on TV and we got an unbelievable amount of work done. It was a huge number of man-hours in total which an organisation like ours wouldn't dream of getting normally. The place is almost unrecognisable now."

Project: Olly Murs Jameela Jamil with volunteers giving the Selby Centre a spruce up

The Selby Centre hosts more than 100 charities, community groups, sports clubs and faith groups and has been running since 1993 with the motto "many cultures, one community".

It is run by local staff members who started as volunteers before taking the management helm alongside groups, residents and Haringey Council.

A COMPANY was found to be at fault after a man from Tottenham had his hand nearly sliced off by a machine he used at work.

Ronan Schoeman, 32, was making a wooden handrail using a spindle moulder when the blades got caught and pulled his hand toward the cutter. He suffered severe damage to his left hand and had to endure a month in hospital after the accident,

Company blamed after worker is maimed undergoing three operations to transfer bones from his foot to replace bones in his disfigured hand. He also had to have skin grafted from other parts of his body to repair the damage.

His employer, Maplestead Limited of Orchard Gate, Greenford, Ealing, has been fined

£1,000 by the Health And Safety Executive and ordered to pay costs of £2,000 after the company was found to have breached the Health And Safety At Work Act.

Maplestead Limited failed to provide suitable machine guarding for the type of work Mr Schoeman was doing and had failed to fit guards over the machine's rotating parts. There was also found to be inadequate supervision and training.

HSE inspector Jack Wilby said: "It is the responsibility of all companies to make sure this work is planned and supervision and training provided."

SHARON SHOESMITH has been given the chance to appeal over her sacking as the head of children's services in Haringey.

Ms Shoesmith was sacked in December 2008 following the death of 17-month-old Peter Connelly. Her claim that she has been unlawfully sacked from the authority was rejected by a judge in April.

But she has now been given leave to take the case to the Court Of Appeal, with Mr Justice Foskett reducing the claim for costs against her from £350,000 to £10,000. He said: "It is by no means fanciful that the Court Of Appeal may differ from my view".

He added: "There is, in my view, a wider public interest than merely the interest arising from the circumstances of this case for a considered judgment of the Court Of Appeal, reflecting on the authorities to which my attention was drawn, so as to provide an authoritative focus in this difficult area."

Ms Shoesmith has claimed she was made a scapegoat for the toddler's death which took place after authorities missed more than 50 injuries, including fractured ribs and a broken back.

The 56-year-old has said a media "witch hunt" after the shocking details of Baby Peter Connelly's death were revealed, panicked education secretary at the time, Ed Balls, into ordering she be removed from her post without compensation. Mr Balls has denied the allegation.

He had ordered her removal after reading a damning report from Ofsted concerning child protection in Haringey. But Ms Shoesmith's lawyers claim he was influenced by the huge media interest in the case at the time.

'My head was pounding... I because I was pregnant. So that's when I had my stroke'

I WAS 24 years old when I had my stroke. I was shopping in Wood Green, desperate to get some new boots, and my head was pounding. I thought it was because I was pregnant and had been rushing about too much. So I went to bed – and that's when I had the stroke."

Sheer determination has seen Tess Lancashire move on with her life since she suffered a life-threatening stroke more than two decades ago, caused by a defect of her circulatory system.

Tragically, she lost the baby she was carrying at the time and has endured years of exhausting rehabilitation since, teaching herself to walk and talk again with scarce outside help along the way.

But, now aged 46 and a proud mother to 14-year-old Samuel, Tess has been single-minded in her pursuit of a fulfilling life and now hopes to help other stroke survivors with the launch of a new group in Wood Green this week.

She explained to the Advertiser how strokes can hit at any age and how support is crucial in reminding people that life does go on.

"I didn't even realise they could happen to young people," she said.

"I was taken to St Bart's where my husband at the time explained that I was normally very healthy and had a lot going for me, and the doctor gave me a chance. From then I thought, I'm going to get on, mate – I don't give a monkey's!"

A professional actress, singer and puppeteer at the time of her stroke, Tess was happily married, busily working in theatre and poised to get her Equity Card when it hit. She said: "I was offered little rehabilitation so I did most of it myself, I used my acting skills to get there, but it wasn't easy."

‘There needs to be more understanding and communication.’

"People seem to think, where do these people come from? Who has a stroke? The answer is that they come from ordinary life; solicitors, accountants, chefs, social workers – all sorts. And they have to start again, it can be very traumatic. They need proper support."

TESS is heavily involved in the London North branch of Different Strokes, a charity set up for younger people by barrister and stroke survivor Donal O'Kelly. The London North group was established in Tottenham in 2001.

Now its latest offshoot, which was launched at Wood Green Library on Monday, is for people with aphasia – damage to the parts of the brain responsible for language. Symptoms can include difficulty speaking and understanding speech and problems with reading and writing. The group aims to help survivors with the assistance of specialist speech and language therapists, both in groups and in one-to-one sessions.

Another Different Strokes member, 38-year-old South African-born Craig de Lange, has had four strokes and has to contend with English being only his second language on top of everything else.

The new group is about information, communication, advocacy and mutual support because it can help stroke survivors to be able to share their frustrations and disappointment with people who understand and won't mock or judge, explained Tess.

"Well actually we do laugh quite a lot," she said. "Because we are all in the same boat we are allowed to take the p! And I think sometimes you need to. It's nice for people to have the opportunity to just communicate and for no one else to talk."

"Recovering from a stroke can be very tiring and everyone is affected differently. Some want to go back to work and others don't, some find it difficult to keep marriages and relationships going. Unfortunately my husband and I didn't stay together, although we're great mates now."

"I've been very lucky with the friends I have but I think there needs to be a lot more understanding and more communication."

Six years ago, Tess spent several months travelling in Australia, even venturing out into the notoriously tough Outback with her son Samuel. She wrote a book about the trip, recording notes on a dictaphone as she went, and said it proved a turning point in her recovery.

"I was so nervous, especially out in the Outback. But it helped me a hell of a lot because I developed different strategies on how to deal with things. Samuel is doing extremely well and I think he's becoming more aware of the fact of my disability. He's so special – he's my world."

A PET shop owner who sold cats with mange and diarrhoea and attracted scores of complaints by displaying a parrot which had pulled out its feathers has been sentenced for running the shop without a licence.

Husseyin Salih was also ordered to remove all pets from the premises and is unable to keep or sell animals at the Animal Kingdom shop in Wood Green Shopping City, The Market Hall, for a year.

During the time he held a licence for the shop, between February and December last year, Salih attracted "numerous complaints" from passers-by who were concerned about the state of a parrot on display.

It had pulled out its feathers until its breast area was completely bald. Five customers who bought kittens from Mr Salih found the animals were suffering from mange, diarrhoea and weepy eyes. Officers at Haringey Council were concerned Salih was selling feral cats which had not received any medical care and were in bad health.

He further breached his licence by offering rabbits for sale even though he was not allowed to under the terms of his licence.

He was given a conditional discharge, suspended for 12 months, with Haringey magistrates dismissing Salih's appeal.

Tamara Drewe (15)

Dir: Stephen Frears
 Starring: Gemma Arterton, Roger Allam, Dominic Cooper

A FILM adaptation of a graphic novel at this time of year usually means one thing: naff superhero blockbuster.

But Posy Simmonds' original is about as close to Gotham City as Danny Dyer is to donning top hat and tails and playing Mr Darcy in the latest period drama.

Originally a comic strip for The Guardian, then a book in 2007, Simmonds' bucolic Dorset setting belies the black comedy of snobbery and infidelity in the middle classes starring the promiscuous eponymous anti-heroine.

Acclaimed crime novelist Nicholas Hardiman (Roger Allam) and his hard-working, subservient wife Beth (Tamsin Greig) have set up an idyllic writers' retreat where American Thomas Hardy fanatic Glen (Bill Camp) seems to be a permanent fixture and eye-candy handyman Andy (Luke Evans) provides brawn.

Into their closeted world crashes newspaper columnist, the feisty, sexy Tamara (Gemma Arterton) back after ten years to renovate and sell the family home after the death of her mother. Following a successful nose job the former "Beaky" is now transformed into a bona fide babe and eventually hooks up with hilarious rock star, Ben (Dominic Cooper) whom she goes to interview at a local music festival.

Country life: Gemma Arterton is ravishing as this tart-with-a-heart

Enjoyable on one level as gentle satire, literary types will also get their rocks off to the subtle references to Hardy's pastoral classic Far From The Madding Crowd with a wickedly enjoyable seduction by Ben using drum sticks on Tamara to replace Sergeant Troy's flashing rapier. As Ben, Cooper also steals the show, utterly becoming the rather repellent rock god and proving he is far more than just the pretty boy of Mamma Mia! while Arterton and co do the job and I particularly enjoyed the Greek chorus of two Dorset 15-year-olds girls who smoke a lot and comment on the unfolding action.

But... after an hour or so it turns into a bit of a middle-class muck-about and, while very watchable thanks to the acting, it does install the same kind of ennui in the viewer which infects some of the film's characters so you end thinking: "so what?"

The Republic Of Essex produces another geezer flick celebrating snorting, shooting and an awful lotta swearing. Centring once again on the notorious Essex Boy murders of December 1995, there is nothing interesting or revealing in this cliché-ridden drama.

Successful adaptation of the first Jeff Kinney comic book, which details that awkward age from 11 to 14 when we're neither child nor adult. Gently amusing and terribly perceptive, it's let down by the episodic nature which makes it a little too whimsical.

Gainsbourg (15)

Eric Elmosino is uncanny as Serge Gainsbourg in this quirky biopic of the charismatic French singer. The film only really lifts off after we meet the captivating Lucy Gordon as the Frenchman's English lover, Jane Birkin.

Salt (12A)

Jason Bourne's younger sister, super-spy Evelyn Salt, legs it round America in this enjoyably ridiculous action adventure. Angelina Jolie provides the beauty and brawn – just a shame the writer couldn't provide the brains.

Cannelloni bakes up magic and mayhem

"WELL, it's Otiz as named after the dumb sidekick to Lex Luthor called Otis in the first Superman movie," said John Korn, aka Otiz Cannelloni, "And Cannelloni thanks to my Italian ancestry – the famous flying trapeze artists, The Cannelloni Brothers!"

Believing the first part, but having serious doubts about the second, John and I are talking about the forthcoming double-header which the stand-up is about to embark on at Lauderdale House.

The man of many talents from Crouch End is teaming up with John Hegley again for their Family Show this Sunday, closely followed by his magic show the following Saturday.

The Family Show has become something of a Highgate institution, racking up an impressive 20-plus years at Lauderdale House thanks to a winning mixture of rhymes, comedy, music and a lot of ad-libbing and improvisation.

"John had done a couple of shows there and then asked if I'd like to get involved," said the other John. "We used to do more grown-up stuff called The Brown Paper Bag Boys but now we concentrate on the kids' shows. That said, there is plenty of stuff for the adults in there."

But what is the secret to keeping a room full of small people amused for an hour or so?

"Move about a lot, take out a few coloured objects and give away prizes," said John. "Raisins and Brussels sprouts are our usual favourites. It's interesting how the kids in Highgate usually go for the Brussels sprouts!"

• The John Hegley & Otiz Cannelloni Family Show takes place this Sunday at 12.30pm followed by Magic with Otiz Cannelloni next Saturday at 10am and 11.30am. For ticket details, call the box office on 020 8348 8716.

Double take: Otiz Cannelloni, aka John Korn

UCRA - FREE Training Opportunities ESOL & Citizenship Training, NVQ Health and Social Care or ICT for USERS

UCRA is a London based registered charity providing various services to the ethnic minorities in London. Our Services operate from various sites including Croydon, Brent, Kingston and Haringey. Our services include provision of basic information, advice, guidance to enable newly arrived communities find their way about, NVQ training in Health and Social Care, Customer Service, Business Administration, ICT for Users, Literacy, Numeracy and English for speakers of other languages. All our training programmes are accredited by City and Guilds, ILM or EDI International or Trinity College London.

The UK Border Agency has made important changes to the ESOL provision within the 'knowledge of language and life' requirement for people seeking settlement in the UK and applying for British Citizenship. As of April 2010, all learners are required to study ESOL with an accredited provider that has been approved by the UK Border Agency. UCRA is running ESOL classes for refugees for free with additional support to progress into employment at its various centres.

Also, we are now also running a Train to Gain Programme in order to respond to the needs of employers by upskilling employees especially those who do not possess a level 2 qualification. The courses are funded by various bodies to include London Councils, UK Border Agency and Skills Funding Agency.

WELCOME back to our favourite celebrity chef and Ready Steady Cook regular Richard Cawley who has prepared another exclusive recipe for us. Once again, thanks to The Broadwalk Centre in Edgware for arranging this for us.

Richard Cawley

BASED on a Caribbean recipe, this is a wonderfully tasty main course dish which "cooks itself" so that the finished dish contains crispy skinned chicken sitting on a bed of spicy moist rice with vegetables.

The quantity of uncooked rice seems very little, but it swells enormously during cooking. I invented this 15 years ago as something easy and cheap to feed hungry students.

I can honestly say this is my favourite recipe ever – it is ridiculously easy, can be varied endlessly (I've done it with lamb chops, sausages and all kinds of flavourings) so long as you stick to the proportions of rice and liquid and it always tastes totally fab.

Lazy Chicken 'n' Rice (Serves 6)

Six chicken portions

Three tbsp corn or sunflower oil
One small onion, chopped
250g/9oz mushrooms, sliced
250g/9oz basmati or other long-grain rice, rinsed and dried

850ml/1pt boiling chicken stock
(a cube is fine)

Four tbsp lime juice
(substitute lemon juice if you can't find lime)

Three cloves of garlic, crushed
Three sprigs thyme
(or 1 level tsp dried)
One heaped tsp chilli powder (or more to taste)

Salt and pepper

- Preheat the oven to 200°C /400°F/ gas 6. Season the chicken pieces with pepper and salt. Heat the oil in a large frying pan (preferably non-stick) and fry chicken pieces over a low/medium heat for about five minutes on each side or until lightly browned. (work in manageable batches if your pan is small)

- Meanwhile grease a shallow ovenproof dish and scatter the chopped onion, the sliced mushrooms and rice over the bottom. On top of this, arrange the chicken pieces in one layer, skin side up.

- In a jug or bowl combine the stock, lime juice, garlic, thyme and chilli powder and pour this over the chicken and vegetables. Place in the oven uncovered and leave to cook, undisturbed, for about one hour or until the chicken is cooked and all the stock has been absorbed by the rice.

- Serve with a simple green vegetable like asparagus, or salad.

EPC's – Explained 'in a nutshell'

If you are Selling, or Renting a property out as a Landlord you need a Energy Performance Certificate. If you don't know much about them... Don't worry you are not alone!

They are designed to encourage energy efficient housing and as we all call 'Planet Earth' our home , most of us agree that anything that reduces carbon emissions is a good thing!

You need one (by law) if you are renting out a residential property as a Landlord
You need to have at least commissioned one if you are selling

They are valid for 10 years
They cost around £40

We are more than happy to answer any individual property questions...

ATTENTION LANDLORDS!

BTC LETTINGS WILL MANAGE ALL YOUR PROPERTY HEADACHES FOR ONLY 5%

Wouldn't it be great if the only thing you had to do with letting your property was enjoy your monthly income?

let us do the rest...

BTC Lettings market reviews:

- ★ With not many property owners wanting to sell in this market, there is an overspill of properties to let, here at BTC we have over 200 properties to let
- ★ We are letting 1-3 properties a day - up to 50 a month, i.e. ONLY THE BEST SURVIVE!
- ★ With hunting tenants having sooooo much choice, one thing is clear and very important. There is just too much competition, if you are thinking of letting your property, the condition/decoration will have to be of high standard, (laminate flooring would be a good tip!).
- ★ Apart from poor condition, you may particularly struggle to find tenants if the property is above commercial property or in a high rise block.
- ★ Landlords accepting tenants on housing benefit are achieving higher rent.
- ★ Apart from gas safety certificate, all newly let properties must have an EPC certificate (Energy performance certificate).

If you have any more questions/queries relating to letting your property or current letting market, please call us on 020 8889 7474

- * Properties urgently required
- * 1-3 years guaranteed rent available
- * Tenants with full referencing and guarantors
- * Contracts with Australian - New Zealand teachers, Indian IT graduates
- * Property Inspection Report every three months

Rents we will achieve for your flat/house:

★ Studio	£650 - £750;
★ 1 bed	£750 - £800;
★ 2 bed	£950 - £1050;
★ 3 bed	£1200 - £1300;
★ 4 bed	£1500 - £1700;
★ 5 bed	£2000+

Ed Balls wants more affordable homes built

Labour leadership hopeful Ed Balls last week announced that he wants to see hundreds of thousands more affordable homes built in this country to help reduce the chronic supply shortage of homes.

In a speech to the National Housing Federation the shadow schools secretary attempted to boost his Labour leadership credentials by calling on the coalition government to spend more money on providing more affordable homes.

He acknowledged that the Labour party was "late in recognising the importance of building more homes and more affordable homes" while in government.

"The truth is that whilst we made progress, Labour leaders over several decades never paid enough sustained attention to housing to make it the priority it deserved. That must change," Mr Balls said.

He added "We now need a strong housing policy to support our economy, to provide the homes Britain badly needs and to reconnect with the voters we lost, both young families who want a home of their own and those queuing patiently for social housing."

Essex is among the worst hit as far as the shortage of new and affordable homes is concerned. The widening gap between the demand and supply of homes has effectively forced property prices upwards. Consequently, many people in the local area have been priced out of the housing market.

However, despite the shortage in housing supply, there are some affordable housing schemes currently available in the Essex.

Circle Anglia, for example, is offering a collection of contemporary two-bedroom affordable apartments in a development called Strada on Burghley Way in Chelmsford, with a 50 per cent share in a contemporary home starting from £70,000.

For more information on this developments, along with a comprehensive list of affordable homes for sale in Essex, log-on to www.whathouse.co.uk/affordable-homes.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified in the advertisement; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

14. Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

15. Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

16. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher of this liability.

17. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

18. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

19. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

20. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

21. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

BOSS RELIEVED

Down but not out: Dawson will miss the next eight weeks, but not the whole season as feared

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Scans reveal Dawson injury is not as bad as first feared

By Lee Husson

TOTTENHAM manager Harry Redknapp admitted he was relieved after discovering that Michael Dawson is expected to return to fitness in eight weeks.

The Spurs defender was stretchered off during England's 4-0 Euro 2012 qualifying win over Bulgaria on Friday night.

Dawson's leg buckled beneath him when challenging for the ball early in the second half at Wembley, badly twisting his knee and leaving his manager fearful he could be out for the season.

However, scans showed that the 26-year-old centre-back had fortunately only sprained his medial ligaments in his left knee and ligaments in his left ankle, rather than torn them, and he is expected to be back fit in two months' time.

"First of all, it's a big blow for Michael and a great shame for him," Redknapp told the club website.

"But watching it live, I thought it could have been worse than it's turned out."

"It could have been his cruciate ligament and that would have been the end of the season for him, but as it is, it's not such a long job and he should be back in a couple of months."

The Spurs boss believes that Dawson's injury has proved how valuable the summer signing of Arsenal's William Gallas on a free transfer was, despite some criticism received over the move.

"Jonathan Woodgate is struggling, Ledley King can't play every game and you also have to remember that Michael had an achilles injury last season, so it was always a position we needed to do something in and that's why we did it," he added.

"Sebastien Bassong was excellent last season and we've got decent cover in there – players who can come in and do a job – but you also need experience."

"Ledley's got experience, Michael's got experience and now William's experience will be invaluable."

"He'll give us a bit of know-how and a real presence. You don't do what he's done in the game without being a top, top player and he's got all the medals to show for it."

United are too strong for 'Boro

AYLESBURY UNITED proved too strong for Haringey Borough on Saturday as they recorded a 3-1 win over Tom Loizou's men in this Spartan Premier Division clash at Coles Park.

United, relegated from the Southern League last season, started brightly and tested Jamaine Edwards early, with the Borough keeper doing well to palm away a drilled cross-shot.

The visitors were also a constant threat from set pieces, with giant defender John Mulholland going dangerously close on a number of occasions before the impressive Leon Gordon fired them into the lead just before the break at the end of a flowing move.

But the home side seized the initiative after the break and were rewarded in the 54th minute when new signing from Barkingside Harry Honesty jinked down the left and set up Jamie Brandon to slot home the equaliser.

Aylesbury hit back and Edwards made a good block to deny Ben Baines one-on-one, while at the other end Brandon was denied a second by Ricky Perks in goal.

The visitors regained the lead in scrappy fashion in the 66th minute when an inswinging free-kick hit the post, with Borough defender Rakim Richards' clearance hitting Baines on the shin and rebounding into the net.

Honesty went close to an instant equaliser, before Perks made a super save to deny Luke Bryan from close range, but United sealed the points when Joey Acheampong's strike was deflected and looped over Edwards and into the net.
